

OTOLARYNGOLOGY (ENT) BILLING

The core of any medical billing cycle, including that for ENT, is your claims. You first convert the ENT service you have provided a particular patient into a billable claim.

You submit this claim in the form of relevant documents and leave the medical billing company to follow up on the claim on your behalf. But you and we know this process is not as straightforward as writing about it is.